
Subject: Re: iimage tool

Posted by David Fanning on Wed, 23 Jun 2004 16:13:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Francois writes:

> Concerning the iimage command, here is the answer from RSI.
>
>
> If you call an iTool from within a program, the iTool will not start > responding to events until focus is returned to the Main level (The IDL > command line). You can get around this by periodically checking for events > using the WIDGET_EVENT routine. The following example demonstrates how this > can be done:

Oh, dear. No debugging allowed. Silent error handlers...

Do you get the impression we aren't suppose to be fooling around with this software!? :-)

Cheers,

David

--

David Fanning, Ph.D.

Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.

Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>
