dear all...

it's always the serial port..

i downloaded the software from the rsi website (code contributed kind of thing), i placed the .dll and .dln files in the right folders, and tried to use the functions as described in the readme file...

the functions are not recognized as such.

moreover what do i have to do with the c code source file (included in the downloaded archive)?

could you please give me any tip to integrate the dln in the main application?

thanks in advance

michael
