
Subject: mesh_volume and tetra_volume

Posted by robertschaefer on Mon, 09 Aug 2004 09:24:42 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hello, I want to get the volume out of a 3d object.

First i tried with mesh_volume, but the returned values weren't similar to my calculated. I checked with mesh_issolid: return value:1, so it is solid and should return the volume.

When i check with tetra_volume the volume is similar to my calculated volume.

Now my question: what is the difference between mesh_volume and tetra_volume?

Robert
