I have IDL here and I am wanting to write an application over the next year which others can use. It will have a GUI front end. If I want to write this and distribute it to others, what are the ramifications?

Can I

1) put application on a disc (idl licenses?)

i need to complile for windows and unix seprataley i assume?

can the application be used without the users having idl licenses

2) allow external users to log in to a unix box to use?

any advice will be appreciated
