

---

Subject: Re: Help: Communicating between a Windows .exe program and an IDL program

Posted by KM on Tue, 18 Jan 2005 14:40:24 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hi Robert,

On Mon, 17 Jan 2005, Robert Barnett wrote:

- > If I were to use sockets I would probably prefer to stream XML
- > (IDL 6.1 only) down the socket. I guess that just depends upon
- > your aptitude with XML/DOM as well as future prospects for your
- > project.

Please clarify. I have 6.0, and it has XML support, and socket support. Why do I need 6.1? I see mention of XML DOM in the 6.1 WhatsNew guide... But I don't know much about XML, nor DOM (but am in the process of learning...)

Thanks,

-k.

<http://spacebit.dyndns.org/>

---