Subject: Re: Plotting to file
Posted by bso on Wed, 17 May 1995 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNED MESSAGE-----

In article <D8n2A4.CJr@midway.uchicago.edu>, rivers@cars3.uchicago.edu wrote:

> If the Mac supports the Z device then you can PLOT to the Z device, read the > bitmap back and use WRITE_XXX to save to some graphics file. You could also use > the Postscript driver to save to PS files which you can read into Word, etc.

Thanks.  I reread the TVRD section in the reference manual and realized that I can actually capture the image in the plot window to an array without switching to the Z-buffer and back.  One collateral benefit is that the progess of the procedure is constantly shown in the plot window.  Do you foresee any problems with this approach?

Bosco So        |     bso@acm.org
PGP public key   |     http://www.ultranet.com/~bso/pgp/

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNATURE----- Version: 2.6.2

 iQCVAwUBL7mDQVlxq0cK9TLZAQFRXQP/RZtmLqJwCPSHErSDYsQ+a57PFB5l kWP1
 XpcVD9nVuCcvZ28T5JFxiYeRUEdTp4RWeblz9ZRlpvuRCBTtE1IZf0kNxFWW IPIx
 XieQw/+SaJarBipTXj21z4iU94szdcoMELuTjGA4UgaXW4Kunt14yHBPAA10 VlBv
zvrdghzh6B8=
=DSCT
-----END PGP SIGNATURE-----