
Subject: Re: no drag events in cw_fslider or widget_slider
Posted by David Fanning on Mon, 12 Sep 2005 23:27:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

jbattat@cfa.harvard.edu writes:

- > I find that I do not get events when dragging the slider bar in either
- > a widget_slider or a cw_fslider widget despite setting the /DRAG flag.
- > I am using IDL 5.4 on Windows XP.
- >
- > For both widgets, I do get events if I:
- > (1) click in the scroll bar
- > (2) click the right or left arrows at the ends of the scroll bar
- > (3) release the mouse after dragging the slider
- >
- > Incidentally, in the cw_fslider widget, the slider does not move when I
- > click the left or right scroll arrows on the slider (this is not the
- > case in the widget_slider widget).
- >
- > I just ran the same code on a UNIX machine and I DO see continuous
- > events while dragging (using both cw_fslider and widget_slider). So it
- > may be a problem or incorrect setting on my Windows system. Is there a
- > setting that needs to be updated in Windows for drag events to work?
- >
- > Any advice out there on how to ensure that I get continuous events as
- > the slider is dragged?

I think your only option is to write a nice letter to Mr Gates. Windows just don't do it! :-)

Cheers,

David

--

David Fanning, Ph.D.

Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.

Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>
