Dear IDL users,

I recently started to use iPlot for plotting my data. I really like the interactivity between iTools and the IDL command line. I've never used Direct Graphics much before but since I discovered iTools, I prefer this by far for my plotting purposes.

That said, there's a thing I don't like about iTools: Whatever format I choose when I export plots, the result is always bad. But when I print the plots directly from iTools, they look awesome. I've read that it could be the IDL version I'm using (6.1) but I'm not sure a newer version would give better results.

Does anyone have tricks to get good quality exports of plots made with iPlot?

Thanks a lot!

Gui
