Subject: Re: idl license server an mac powerbook
Posted by Karsten Rodenacker on Thu, 08 Dec 2005 14:51:17 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yes,thank you, that has fixed one thing. Unluckily is the chosen hostname without network not resolved. However I am trying at the moment with an alias of localhost. This works frequently (!). However I must experience some difficulties if I have the X-server started and change the environment. At least I can now mostly use idl.

Regards
Karsten
Am Wed, 07 Dec 2005 17:53:13 +0100 schrieb Marshall Perrin <mperrin+news@cymric.berkeley.edu>:

> Karsten Rodenacker <karsten.rodenacker@gsf.de> wrote:
>>
>> Hi, does anybody know how to configure the license server for idl that >> it >> is operational for different environments, network at the lab, network >> at >> home, no network at all? Seemingly the hostname changes in different >> environments!
>
> You can set the hostname to remain the same in all environments, which > will > probably ease your difficulties. Edit the file /etc/hostconfig and change > the line 'HOSTNAME=-AUTOMATIC-', replacing the -AUTOMATIC- with whatever > you want your Mac's hostname to be.
>
> - Marshalll

--
Erstellt mit Operas revolutionï¿œerem E-Mail-Modul: http://www.opera.com/m2/