Subject: Re: Pass by value and performance
Posted by Rick Towler on Fri, 23 Dec 2005 18:04:12 GMT

Dick Jackson wrote:

>> But the IDL newsgroup... A valuable resource. Indispensable. And not a >> single reference to it on the RSI website. <sigh>
>
>
> Not meaning to be a stickler, but I remembered seeing something the other > day:
>
> On this page:
> http://www.rsinc.com/services/techres.asp
>
> We find:
> The comp.lang.idl-pvwave Newsgroup is an active, independent forum where > users exchange ideas and code. RSI occasionally provides input to this > forum, but does not regulate it.

Dammit, Dick. O.K. Fine. Maybe I exaggerated :) ONE reference. My issue is that the newsgroup isn't front and center on the "community" page. When users, unaware of comp.lang.idl-pvwave, stumble to the RSI website looking for help they will most likely find the IDL user forum.

How many of you are posting there?

-Rick