I am thinking that Apple on Intel may be a demise of Linux.

I for one, a linux and wintel user, would love to switch to Apple and have the best of linux and the decent of mictel (microsoft+intel). If the hardware price comes down some, a part of the linux folks may switch to apple. Apple may then see a surge in computer, scientific and engineering applications that partially drove linux forward.

I was actually thinking of asking my IS department whether they would tolerate and Apple Workstation :-) my 2 cents,

Mirko
