

---

Subject: Re: Promised new IDE?

Posted by R.Bauer on Mon, 05 Jun 2006 17:14:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hi Ben

which other version control systems were implemented?

Is for example mercurial (<http://www.selenic.com/mercurial>) available too?

cheers

Reimar

Ben Panter wrote:

> Mark Hadfield wrote:

>

>> Eclipse is implemented in Java isn't it? Uh oh. I've worked with a few

>> Java GUIs on Windows and I've never seen one that works anywhere near as >> well as native applications.

>

> I already use eclipse to manage my code, both IDL and non-IDL. It's > great, and I have it running in both XP and linux environments with no > problems. It's CVS handling is pretty sweet too...

>

> If RSI/ICRNA[1] are reading this and looking for beta testers, I'd be > happy to oblige...

>

> Ben

>

> [1] - I Can't Remember the New Acronym

>

---