
Subject: Re: idl 6.3, cdf_epoch16 keyword to cdf_varcreate
Posted by Foldy Lajos on Mon, 12 Jun 2006 20:10:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi,

IMHO, the interpreter should search for an exact match first, and look for abbreviations only if an exact match can not be found. CDF_EPOCH is an exact match, so it should not generate an error message.

regards,
lajos

On Mon, 12 Jun 2006, Martin Rother wrote:

```
>
>      Hi Gurus,
>
> today one of my colleagues raised the simple question about > the 'CDF_EPOCH'/'CDF_EPOCH16' optional keywords of 'CDF_VARCREATE'.
>
> this, indeed, seems ambiguous for my (may be limited) understanding > of the way the interpreter is handling keywords.
>
> have I accidentally missed something in the documentation, > or is there some trick to avoid the
>
>      % Ambiguous keyword abbreviation: CDF_EPOCH.
>
> error message?
>
> hints welcome,
> best regards,
> martin.
>
> --
> Martin Rother (rother@gfz-potsdam.de) +331 / 288-1272      Section 2.3
>                               GeoForschungsZentrum Potsdam, Germany
>
```
