Subject: Re: Reading binary files made by Python
Posted by James Kuyper on Mon, 10 Jul 2006 18:51:05 GMT

Rick Towler wrote:

...
> FWIW, I would consider XDR if you can do that from the Python side. It > is much easier to use than HDF, CDF, etc. and sounds like it is > exactly what you are looking for. The only potential issue is that I > don't think MATLAB reads it so if that is a requirement I would go back > to your original approach.

Keep in mind that HDF and CDF use XDR internally.