I found out more about it:

Everything goes well, if I don't use the tab widget.

And with the tab widget, it works, IF one puts the sizing of the tab widget element to explicit. But only then. Otherwise the whole area is shrinked, don't know why, b/c in the manual it says that the size of the tabwidget is determined by the largest base in the tab elements. As the base size is determined by the explicitly sized draw widget, the tab widget should find out about that, but it doesn't seem to do so. I guess this is a bug? Or an un-understood feature?

Anyway, with some mangling i could do now what I wanted.

Regards,

Michael
