Subject: Re: Close window command?
Posted by mchinand on Mon, 24 Jul 2006 19:50:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In article <1153769529.483637.316050@h48g2000cwc.googlegroups.com>, <adisn123@yahoo.com> wrote: > Hello. > My program generates 4 different images in 4 different window in one > operation. > It is quite tedious to close every window after display to run the > program again after I change some > > parameters in the program in order to see new 4 images. > I'm wondering there is a way to kill/close the old windows when the > program starts over. > Thank you. This should delete all open windows: IDL> while !D.WINDOW ne -1 do wdelete if you know the window indices of the four windows your program creates, you can do: IDL> wdelete, w ind1, w ind2, w ind3, w ind4 where w ind1, w ind2, ... correspond to the window indices of your open windows. Hope that helps, --Mike Michael Chinander m-chinander@uchicago.edu Department of Radiology University of Chicago