
Subject: Re: Pvwave for Linux ?
Posted by rep2857 on Mon, 28 Aug 1995 07:00:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In article <41kql9$f8j@n.ruf.uni-freiburg.de>,
Peter Suetterlin <ps@kis.uni-freiburg.de> wrote:
> Mark Rivers (rivers@cars3.uchicago.edu) wrote:
>
> : IDL 4.0.1 has a Linux version. It is on the CD I got yesterday.
>
> Anyone tried it already? And, what's the price? Like Windows version, > or like a full Unix licence?

I haven't tried it, but I asked about the price last month. I was told it would be the same price as a Windows or Mac version, $1500. Check with RSI for confirmation on that. Now that RSI has released a version, I'd be surprised if VNI didn't release their version sometime in the near future.

Mike Schienle Hughes Santa Barbara Research Center
Home: mgs@seldon.terminus.com Work: rep2857@sbsun0010.sbrc.hac.com
Contract Employee - Will visualize data for large amounts of money
