
Subject: Re: subset an image by roi in idl

Posted by peter.eddy@shaw.ca on Tue, 26 Sep 2006 16:48:18 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Jeff N.

If I understand correctly from your comment..

gis_learner wrote:

> 3) as you said the roi's are as big as the original image. I tried to > define ROI from the subsetted images so that I can use in the original > ones.. But the result is terrible.....

ROI's in ENVI are referenced by pixel coordinates (not geo-coordinates) so if you try to use roi boundarys (dims=) on two images with different x y extents (nl= | ns=) it will not work.

If you like you can email me directly, and I'll give you a hand. We dont want to turn this group into >> idl-pvwave-ENVI-techsupport. ;)

Pete
