Yeah, my point was a positive one. Without your site, we'd be reduced to "Search the archive for something we may have written regarding this topic last year or maybe before that", instead of pointing to a nicely formatted page with oft-humorous editorial introductory notes. An excellent resource whose value grows day by day. Thanks for keeping it up, David. I for one try to click on one of your ads of interest when I visit to keep the hosting fees covered.
