Having too much to do improves one's creativity (if not speling). Thus, upon opening my windows 3.11 idl 4.0.1 session, one glaring thing that bugged me was the title on that window: idl #[cite number] - mirko vukovic why in the world? Couldn't they come up with something nicer. I know where I can get my cite number, and I know where I can find out my name (in the sig file). I think that ``IDL'' would do just fine for the window title.
There are some other things that bug me (like they could provide emacs with their distribution), but this window title tops them all :-)
