
Subject: Re: TRIANGULATE. Finding contiguous cells efficiently?

Posted by Libertan on Thu, 01 Mar 2007 01:11:39 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yes, compact notation is not my forte, and I thought CRC32 was a type of camera battery. Unimpressive, I know.

I'll give `c=(a>b)+ishft(long64(a<b),32)` a try. Sounds like something worth understanding. Thanks again for the feedback.

Libertan.
