Subject: Re: ENVI Question: Can you programmatically access the Available Spectra List?
Posted by Mort Canty on Thu, 29 Mar 2007 11:47:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Jeff N. schrieb:
> Hi Folks,
>
> If you're setting up a spectral math expression, there's a step where > you match the variable representing a spectrum (s1, s2, etc.) to a > list of "available spectra" that you're going to perform your spectral > math on. Is there a way to access that list programmatically? I want > to do some things with single spectra, not an entire file, that are a > bit too complicated for a custom spectral math routine - I need to > read data files, access other procedures and dialog boxes, etc.
>
> Jeff
>

Hi Jeff,

Assuming you have access to IDL with your ENVI version, it sounds like you want to write some IDL extensions for ENVI of your own. I can recommend a good reference :-)

 http://www.crcpress.com/shopping_cart/products/product_detai l.asp?sku=7251&parent_id=&pc=

Mort Canty