Subject: Re: newbie's question for writing files
Posted by David Fanning on Tue, 17 Apr 2007 22:22:27 GMT

geonline714@gmail.com writes:

> Oh, my. Thank you so much. David. It seems that it really need high IQ > to learn IDL. :)

Well, I'm pretty sure you knew more about this subject when the day started than I did. I just read the manual and started fooling around. The main difference between us is probably that I'm not afraid to do something dumb at the IDL command line. :-)

Cheers,

David

P.S. Not that I would usually admit it, you understand.
When I report a result, I try hard to make it look like I'm a genius. :-)

--
David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: http://www.dfanning.com/
Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")