
Subject: Re: Another simple one

Posted by Carsten Lechte on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 13:19:35 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Brian Larsen wrote:

- > Arrays do have to be rectangular, you can't have them with different
- > sizes in different dimensions. That being said you can populate a
- > structure with different 1-d arrays of different lengths or
- > something.

Or, you can use an array of pointers to differently-sized 1D arrays.
Then, you can use normal indexing for access, instead of a mix of structure and array access. Chapter 8 of "Building IDL Applications" deals with the concept of pointers.

chl
