Subject: Re: byte offset in POINT_LUN
Posted by Josh on Wed, 08 Aug 2007 20:05:38 GMT

On Aug 8, 2:03 pm, Josh <joshuamonta...@gmail.com> wrote: > as i'm cruising through, reading a large ascii file, I'd like to keep > track of the beginning of certain "blocks" of code. in the event that > i find what i'm looking for within the block, I'd like to PRINTF the > entire block (the beginning of which is now above my file position).
> I've used POINT_LUN to return to the start of a file before, by > setting position=0, but is there a way I can use POINT_LUN to go to a > specific line within the file (since I'm not sure how that would > correspond to a byte offset) ?

sorry, where I said ".... certain 'blocks' of code," I meant ".... certain 'blocks' of text." That is, the data in the file (which are in ascii format).