
Subject: Re: Build a dll within IDL

Posted by Haje Korth on Thu, 06 Dec 2007 13:12:57 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Check the documentation for Callable IDL. There are some examples in the IDL distro for you to try. It is not very user friendly and you still need a license for every copy that will use that dll. I am not sure this is really what you were looking for.

Haje

"Lucress Carol" <incognito.me@gmx.de> wrote in message news:c7a843f3-e7b8-465c-9d9f-a3a8216cb6de@y5g2000hsf.google.roups.com...

> Hi everyone,

>

> My question may seem obvious for most of you but I'm not > an expert in IDL. I wonder if I can generate an array (for example > `g=findgen(24)`) in IDL and then build > the dll for this array. I would like to use that dll for further > purposes in VC++.

> For building the dll I thought of `MAKE_DLL` but I'm not so sure.

> Does someone have an idea?

>

> Thanks

>

> incognito
