Subject: Re: Command Line IDL for Windows, now available Posted by Haje Korth on Tue, 18 Dec 2007 15:16:57 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Excellent! Just discussed this with Doug and Bill at the AGU meeting!!! Have been waiting 20 years for this. :-)

```
<abraham@ittvis.com> wrote in message
news:9c1934d4-6115-4bdf-aeea-464fb4c9d6f2@w28g2000hsf.google groups.com...
> ... for IDL 7.0 only.
>
> I have created a Windows console application that provides familiar > Unix command-line functionality. I know that you guys and gals are > hard core IDL and Unix users, so please don't flame me if your > favorite functionality isn't there.
>
> The console application does have some nice additional features not > found in the Unix command-line IDL app. Of special note, is the IDL
> "MP" mode. IDL MP mode allows you to create multiple IDL processes, > switch the command line between them, and even asynchronously post a > command to an MP process for execution in the background without > blocking the command line. You can even create MP IDL sessions in > different bit modes--allowing you to mix and match 32- and 64-bit > processes.
>
> I did this project on the side, so I don't know how often I will be > updating it. Hopefully, it will fulfill all your needs. (smile) I > will collect feedback for any future releases. But, if you find something catastrophic, please let me know.
>
 I have minimally tested it on WinXP 32/64 and Vista. Please see the > doc in the download file for the list of know issues and bugs, plus installation instructions, and full details on functionality.
> I've posted the download zip file on the ITTVIS code contribution > site. Search for my name "Abraham", or the file name "wincl 7.0.zip", or, you can try this link:
>
  https://www.ittvis.com/codebank/search.asp?FID=536
>
>
  Merry Christmas
  Abraham Campbell
>
>
```