Subject: Re: IDL workbench & windows
Posted by Steve[5] on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 09:01:11 GMT

elwood wrote:
> One last note for any illustrious readers:
> When I have re-opened a project, the project explorer shows my idl
> source file
> and the fits file that I am trying to read.
> However Even though the path to the fits file is in my IDL path, > it doesnt seem to know where the fits file is unless I cd to the > directory where it is located.
>
> My quick read of how the idl path works under windows is that it > search for .pro and .save files in those locations.
> How can I make it know about other files??
>

See the file_which command - if you do not give it a path to look at it will search using your IDL_PATH as default.

Steve