
Subject: Re: end-of-line termination

Posted by ben.bighair on Fri, 07 Mar 2008 16:59:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Mar 7, 11:48 am, Peter Clinch <p.j.cli...@dundee.ac.uk> wrote:

> Haje Korth wrote:

>> Hi,

>> I am writing ASCII files in IDL using PRINTF that require to have a CR+LF >> end-of-line termination. Is there a way to force this in UNIX, which uses LF >> only?

>

> You could thug it with a system call from your program to unix2dos (or > whatever utility) after you've finished...

Hi,

That might be the easiest, but if you have a lot of these to do I think the C printf kind of formatting allows you to add combinations of "\f\n" to a line of output.

?printf-style

gets you there.

Cheers,
Ben
