As you know I'm a newcomer to this newsgroup, and if you feel like I'm wrong just disregard the article below.

I'm aware that there is a "genlemen agreement" that neither VNI or RSI employees should post anything to this newsgroup. It's fair enough. What happens is that people asking the questions get replies from the experts by the e-mail and result is that we (users) are not benefiting from this. Isn't it time to lift the ban, as long as these articles are restricted to the discussion of technical issues and not virtues of either of the packadges?

Cheers
