Subject: Re: Modification of Linestyle (dots, dashes too far apart)
Posted by catwithhat on Tue, 13 May 2008 23:57:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks.... ... not sure if I'm going to venture into this... maybe I'll try the iContour thingy. That seems to allow modification of the bit pattern too.

axel

On May 13, 4:26 pm, David Fanning <n...@dfanning.com> wrote:
> mgal...@gmail.com writes:
>> This is possible in object graphics (check out C_LINESTYLE property in >> IDLgrContour), but not in direct graphics.
>
> Oh, right. I didn't read that closely enough. :-(
>
>> Warning: I've found using >> IDLgrContour to be a bit of a pain. Check out David's article:
>
>> http://www.dfanning.com/ographics_tips/contour_obj5.html
>
>> By the way, the article should probably be updated: IDLgrContour does >> allow contour lines to be labeled now (not sure what version that came >> in).
>
> Yeah, that was written for IDL 5.0, I believe. It's probably > time for an upgrade. But so few people actually use object > graphics for contouring that I haven't been highly motivated.
>
> Cheers,
>
> David
>
> --
> David Fanning, Ph.D.
> Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
> Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming:http://www.dfanning.com/
> Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")