Subject: Re: vertical line that moves with cursor in draw widget Posted by Michael Galloy on Sun, 08 Jun 2008 22:56:30 GMT

cgoethel@igpp.ucla.edu wrote: > Hello, I have a draw_widget with motion events set up. I draw a > vertical line (using plots) which follows the cursor as it moves > through the draw area. I can get the vertical line to follow the > cursor easily enough - but I can't seem to figure out how to erase the > previous lines. All the lines remain drawn. Any suggestions?
> Thanks! Cindy

Use a pixmap (created with "window, /pixmap"). All drawing that you currently do should go to the pixmap. Then copy the pixmap to the actual draw window (with "device, copy=r"). This copy can be done very quickly.
Finally draw your lines on that. Every time the cursor moves, copy the pixmap again and draw the new lines.

Mike
--
www.michaelgalloy.com
Tech-X Corporation
Software Developer II