
Subject: Re: strange behaviour of SOCKET
Posted by pgrigis on Fri, 22 Aug 2008 13:45:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

pgri...@gmail.com wrote:

> Yes,
>
> I was using higher level routines such as sock_copy and webget, > and after some debugging I found out (not surprisingly) that socket > was the culprit.
>
> Actually I found out that I can get the files if I want read wait ;-)

> a long time
> (I haven't timed it, but it is more then several tens of minutes).
>
> I am in contact with my sysadmins to find out whether this comes > from interaction with our web-filtering.
>
> Ciao,
> Paolo

>
> Pedro.Rodriguez.Pasc...@gmail.com wrote:
>> Hello,
>>
>> The problem might be related to HTTP1.0/HTTP1.1 protocols in the >> socket connection. Unfortunately, I am not an expert in internet >> protocols nor in IDL, but I found similar problems that were solved by >> using the latest version of webget.pro function in the astrolib >> library by Wayne Landsman.
>>
>> I apologize if this post is actually non-sense.
>>
>> Pedro
