Subject: Re: strange behaviour of SOCKET Posted by pgrigis on Fri, 22 Aug 2008 13:38:54 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yes.

I was using higher level routines such as sock_copy and webget, and after some debugging I found out (not surprisingly) that socket was the culprit.

Actually I found out that I can get the files if I want a long time (I haven't timed it, but it is more then several tens of minutes).

I am in contact with my sysadmins to find out whether this comes from interaction with our web-filtering.

Ciao, Paolo

Pedro.Rodriguez.Pasc...@gmail.com wrote:

- > Hello.
- >
- > The problem might be related to HTTP1.0/HTTP1.1 protocols in the
- > socket connection. Unfortunately, I am not an expert in internet
- > protocols nor in IDL, but I found similar problems that were solved by
- > using the latest version of webget.pro function in the astrolib
- > library by Wayne Landsman.
- >
- > I apologize if this post is actually non-sense.
- > Pedro