Subject: Re: DLM unload

Posted by olmeca on Wed, 29 Oct 2008 02:16:57 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Finally i've found a solution, it isn't clean nor portable but for my objectives works.

I've made a "dlm_wrapper" DLM, so that dlm (that it's loaded 1 time) load the method of the dlm that i wan't to debug. Here's the code it works on OSX (and should work on linux) and loads functions.

On Oct 27, 5:14 pm, olm...@gmail.com wrote: > Unfortunately that's doesn't work because dlms are loaded diffrent. > > I think that there must be a way to unload a dlm, if not debugging > it's way too painful. > Thanks anyway. > Felipe > On Oct 22, 5:42 pm, Robbie < ret...@iinet.net.au> wrote: > >> I don't know about DLMs, but if you manually load the library using >> CALL_EXTERNAL(Image,/UNLOAD) then it should do what you want. > >> Cheers, > >> Robbie >