

---

Subject: Re: Coyote Awareness
Posted by Haje Korth on Tue, 09 Dec 2008 22:21:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

This one obviously barely made the cut in Darwin's selection for the survival of the fittest....

"David Fanning" <news@dfanning.com> wrote in message
news:MPG.23a8432ad0f8123298a582@news.giganews.com...

> Folks,

>

> Yikes! I had to take my wife to work this morning on slippery, > snow-covered roads, and a coyote nearly lost it's life by > running in front of the car. Luckily, it turned back just > in the nick of time, as I wasn't likely to stop.

>

> I'm pondering what this might mean. I'm certain it is an > omen of some kind. I frequently see coyotes on the drive > to work, but I've never come close to killing one.

>

> Cheers,

>

> David

>

> P.S. I think this means, when you retire, you are suppose > to *stay* retired. :-(

>

> --

> David Fanning, Ph.D.

> Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.

> Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>

> Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")

---