Subject: Re: How to take proper tick labels with 'axis' command? Posted by Jeremy Bailin on Thu, 08 Jan 2009 16:33:24 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Jan 7, 6:38 am, ICBM0926 <ICBM0...@gmail.com> wrote:

- > Dear all
- > One may use 'axis' command to plot axes. However, one may need to use
- > parameters like 'xticks' 'xminor' to acquire desired number of ticks.
- > The tick label may show improper number (ex. a decimal) with these
- > parameters given. Can somebody tell me how to let IDL decide tick
- > label properly and automatically while It can show desired number of
- > ticks?

>

> Best regards

XTICKFORMAT might be what you're looking for. You can feed it a function that translates the tick number into a string however you want.

-Jeremy.