
Subject: Re: OpenADDE and IDL

Posted by KRDean on Thu, 12 Mar 2009 14:07:09 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Mar 11, 9:33 am, kBob <KRD...@gmail.com> wrote:

> What is the connection between SECC's OpenADDE and IDL?
>
> The documentation indicates it has built-in support for IDL (along > with other packages). I was just wondering if anyone new what this > built-in capabilities where, before I decide to install this free > package from SEEC to access their weather data servers.
>
> This is what I am referring to:
>
> <http://www.ssec.wisc.edu/mcidas/software/openadde/>
>
> Kelly Dean
> Fort Collins, CO.

OK, the kind folks at SSEC provided me with an answer.

With OpenADDE Java interface, it can be access thru the IDL Java Bridge to download weather satellite imagery and weather radar data directly into IDL.

Sounds interesting enough, that I'll have to try it out. Now where is that Java Bridge documentation.....

Kelly Dean
Fort Collins, CO
