

---

Subject: Re: IMDISP and writing to Postscript
Posted by David Fanning on Fri, 27 Mar 2009 01:13:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

moonr writes:

```
> Sure, for example:
>
> set_plot, 'PS'
> device, /color, bits_per_pixel=3D8, filename=3Doutname+'.ps' > loadct, 13
> imdisp, findgen(5,5)
> device, /close
>
> If I exlude the postscript and plot in an x window I get a 5X5 box > with 25 individual squares. But when I plot to postscript the > individual squares are blended, appearing like a gradient with more > than 25 colors.
```

Yeah, I don't know. That is exactly what I did. I see 25 individual squares in both. Strange.

Cheers,

David

--

David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>
Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")

---