
Subject: Re: wshow in IDL 7.0

Posted by T.H. on Tue, 09 Jun 2009 15:55:57 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Jun 9, 6:03 am, anand <jana...@gmail.com> wrote:

> Hi,
> for anyone working with several windows at a time in IDL, wshow is a > great help, that is, provided you keep track of all the window > indices. Things were fine till a few days ago when i started using IDL > 7.0 where wshow doesn't seem to work well enough.
> It is only after you have fiddled with the window using your mouse at > least once, that wshow would work as expected. In a program that calls > several windows in a for loop, this is not a practical thing to do.
> Also, the command 'window, 0' does not bring the window numbered 0 on > top of all the windows. Here too we need to fiddle with the window at > least once.
>
> thanking in anticipation, > Anand.

For a discussion of that problem see :

http://groups.google.com/group/comp.lang.idl-pvwave/browse_thread/thread/c2f14f1732fe62b5/f6495824af8d4c2e?hl=en&lnk=gst&q=wshow#f6495824af8d4c2e
