Subject: Re: map_proj_* help
Posted by David Fanning on Sat, 13 Jun 2009 21:09:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

David Fanning writes:

> Oh, never mind. I figured it out. :-(
>
> Here you go. The good news is I probably got another > web page article out of it. :-)

OK, I've written this up for general consumption. (Left all the requisite swear words and references to the Dalai Lama out of it.)

As always (probably the main reason I write these articles) I learned even more about the problem as I wrote it down. Anyway, the article shows you how to navigate both the GeoTiff and the PNG version of this image. They have to be done in slightly different ways due to unspoken "conventions".

You can find the article here:

  http://www.dfanning.com/map_tips/iceshelf.html

Cheers,

David

P.S. Oh, if you are going to run the code, get a fresh copy of the Catalyst Library. Things always change when you probe below the surface of things. ;-)

--
David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: http://www.dfanning.com/
Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")