Subject: creating a widget inside an existing widget

Hi,

I am tying to add some code to my event handler program so that for example each time "button1" is selected, a new widget-base inluding some buttons and text is added to my existing widget. Can anybody please help me how to do that? Is this at all possible?

In this way, each time "button1" is clicked and the new part is added to the existing widget, it becomes bigger. Same as when we add a new row to the bottom of a table; but this row has some buttons and text inside it.

Thank you
