James writes:

> Anyway, I don't have any questions at the moment, but I probably will > soon, and hopefully I can provide some answers as well. My current > pursuit is using Gradient Vector Flow snakes to do feature recognition > and filter out some extraneous glow that we get in the images. I have > just been using IDL for a few months but I am really enjoying it, so > I'm glad to have the chance to talk with other IDL programmers.

Thank you for introducing yourself. Sounds like an interesting project you are doing.

You might be interested in reading this article on active contouring in IDL:

   http://www.dfanning.com/ip_tips/snakes.html

Cheers,

David

--
David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: http://www.dfanning.com/
Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")