Subject: Re: Removing the blanks between elements in a string array
Posted by sulli.jj on Sat, 30 Jan 2010 04:53:19 GMT

On Jan 29, 9:46 pm, pp <pp.pente...@gmail.com> wrote:
> On Jan 30, 2:31 am, "sulli.jj" <sulli...@gmail.com> wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>> Does anyone know a easy to way to print out an array with no blanks at >> all?
>
>> I have an array of strings like >> a = [[' cat,','d o g,','bi   rd   '],[' 1.23,   ',' 4. 56,',' >> 7.89   ']]
>
>> print, a >>   cat, d o g, bi   rd
>> 1.23,   4. 56, 7.89
>
>> I can remove most of the spaces with,
>
>> print, STRCOMPRESS(a, /REMOVE_ALL)
>> cat, dog, bird
>> 1.23, 4.56, 7.89
>
> There are no blanks in the array from strcompress with remove_all. The > spaces between elements are put there by print's default format.
>
> Two ways to get what you want are
>
> print,strcompress(a,/remove_all),format='(3A0)'
>
> print,strjoin(strcompress(a,/remove_all)),format='(A0)'- Hide quoted text -
>
> - Show quoted text -

Ah, that makes more sense. Thanks for your help!