
Subject: Re: problem with output on PS device / TVREAD
Posted by on Fri, 26 Mar 2010 16:42:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On 26 mar, 16:21, David Fanning <n...@dfanning.com> wrote:

> clément mayet writes:
>> Any Idea about the Postscript very crude resolution ?
>
> You are restricting your output to only 50 colors.
> If you lift this restriction, you will get MUCH > better looking output both on PostScript and on > your display.
>
> You appear to want to do this using indexed color (not > sure why), so you have 256 colors available. As far as > I can tell, you are using only a couple of "drawing" colors, > so you have at least 250 colors available for your > images.
>
> Cheers,
>
> David
>
> --
> David Fanning, Ph.D.
> Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
> Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming:<http://www.dfanning.com/>
> Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")

In fact the restriction to 50 colors was a test to understand color tables. Now I use 250 colors. Of course the rendering on my display is much better, but I still have a problem of pixel size on postscript. On display or on PNG I don't see any pixel, whereas I have big squares on Postscript.

Cheers,
Clement
