Subject: Re: Can I make a web application of my IDL program?
Posted by Michael Galloy on Thu, 15 Apr 2010 20:23:54 GMT

On 4/15/10 1:51 PM, LNpellen wrote:
> On Apr 8, 9:32 pm, mgalloy<mgal...@gmail.com> wrote:
>>
>> MAKE_RT, on the other hand, is quite a nice tool for distribution.
>>
>>
>> Mike
>> --www.michaelgalloy.com
>> Research Mathematician
>> Tech-X Corporation
>
> I think I have misunderstood the MAKE_RT a bit. First I thought it was > an unix only command, and second I though one needed to buy a > specified licence pr application to export. I think I should try out > this option.
>
> Ellen

When it first appeared in IDL 7.0 it was an OS script (maybe Unix only?) that created the distribution, but now it is a regular IDL routine. I have used it for creating self-contained demos for people, but now I'm using it when distributing a visualization tool for a commercial product.

Mike
--
www.michaelgalloy.com
Research Mathematician
Tech-X Corporation