Aram Panasenco writes:

> I want your comments on the programming conventions I use and how I can > change them to make the code more clear and desirable for other > programmers to improve. Some things to consider:
>
>   - Should I use comments or is the code (so far) pretty self-explanatory?
>   - Is the non-standard capitalization annoying you? Should I switch to > the classic IDL capitalization (All-caps for IDL keywords, capitalized > function and procedure names)?
>   - Is there anything wrong with the way I handle the IDL class? The > routines?
>   - Anything wrong at all? I'd rather fix it now than thousands of lines > of code later.

I like the style, but, yes, you need comments. Lots of them. :-)

Also, the __DEFINE method has to be the last method in the file, not the first, or you will spend all your programming time compiling files as if you were programming in C or something. :-)

  http://www.dfanning.com/tips/namefiles.html

Cheers,

David

--
David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: http://www.dfanning.com/
Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")