
Subject: Re: This procedure is resulting in errors...
Posted by penteado on Mon, 28 Jun 2010 16:47:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Jun 28, 1:31 pm, atmospheric physics <blmadha...@gmail.com> wrote:
> The following is the procedure for computation of legendre > moments. I am trying to compile the examples indicated in the > procedure, but they were showing that the arguments of LEGENDRE shall > be equal to or greater than 0. Normally, the arguments will be between > -1 and 1 in my case.

The arguments being passed to legendre() do not look like the function intended to be called is IDL's legendre(), but some other with the same name. This other function is not being found, so IDL is using its own. IDL's legendre() takes as the first argument the coordinate where the function is to be evaluated, and for second and third arguments, the Legendre orders.
