
Subject: Re: Relational Operators on Windows
Posted by penteado on Sat, 26 Jun 2010 06:18:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Jun 25, 10:45 pm, David Fanning <n...@dfanning.com> wrote:

> Yes. :-)

>

> IDL> a = [3.2, !VALUES.F_NAN, 2]

> IDL> a = a [where(a lt 3)]

> % Program caused arithmetic error: Floating illegal operand

> IDL> print, a

> 2.00000

That is just a floating point exception. It does not keep the where() from working, does not interrupt the program, and can be suppressed changing !except.
