
Subject: Re: GDL 0.9rc4+CVS packages for Ubuntu 9.10 and 10.04
Posted by Alain Coulais on Tue, 13 Jul 2010 14:33:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Jul 12, 5:09 pm, Reimar Bauer <R.Ba...@fz-juelich.de> wrote:

> Alain Coulais schrieb:

>

>

>

>> On Jul 12, 10:05 am, Reimar Bauer <R.Ba...@fz-juelich.de> wrote:

>>> Alain Coulais schrieb:

>

>>>> My student Lea has prepared packages for Ubuntu 9.10 and 10.04 x386

>>>> (now without HDF5 and NetCDF, but I will upgrade ASAP)

>>>> based on current CVS version (GDL 0.9rc4 + CVS)

>>>> http://aramis.obspm.fr/~coulais/IDL_et_GDL/Ubuntu/Packaging- Download_...

>>>> files *.pro should be in /usr/share/gnudatalangage/lib

>>>> and please put this dir. in your GDL_PATH

>>>> Please report any problems, suggestions ...

>>>> With best regards

>>>> Alain

>>> thx Alain and Lea

>

>>> just a question about 64bit packages.

>

>>> Is it principal possible?

>

>> Yes, it should be possible. I will asked Lea to prepare it.

>> And I will inform here when it will be ready.

>

>> Is they any wish for a 9.04 package ?

>

> I'm happy with 10.04 ;)

>

>

>

>> Since it is the first time we prepare a package, >> despite we made large tests (and all seems to be OK on our side), >> our big concern is if you can use it ... Then please report success >> and any problem (here on newsgroup or directly by email or on the >> source forge page).

>

> do you be in contact with a debian/ubuntu maintainer to get it into the > distribution?

>

Yes and no: we had contacts, but we never succeed to finish ...

Now we are ready to contribute and interact with a maintainer ;-)

Warning for people testing: we do have "segfault" when calling plot on some cases (X11), not clear now why it is OK or not, we will try to improve the packages ...

Alain
